

Her Honour Judge Lloyd-Clarke: Do you, start, start with the Restraining Order --

A
Mr Kirk: Yes.

Her Honour Judge Lloyd-Clarke: First of all, do you agree to a Restraining Order being made?

B
Mr Kirk: If you can hear my application that you put this matter before the General Medical Council, now --

C
Her Honour Judge Lloyd-Clarke: I've got no, I have no power to do anything of the sort, Mr Kirk, so let me go back to my first question. Do you consent to this order being made? It's to deal with future, risk of future breaches. It's nothing to do with what has happened in the past. It's to deal with future risk. Do you consent to the order being made or not?

D
Mr Kirk: I wrote fairly quickly after this came to me by, from the Crown Prosecution Service saying I, your documents will be (inaudible) this document other than the fact that I want the Crown Prosecution Service to ask the General Medical Council to investigate how a doctor has been allowed to falsify my medical records (inaudible) and my --

E
Her Honour Judge Lloyd-Clarke: Right. Mr Kirk, Mr Kirk I'm just going to stop you there for a moment. I, I don't intend to be discourteous but these are not matters with which this Court can deal --

F
Mr Kirk: I don't think that I know --

G
Her Honour Judge Lloyd-Clarke: But you have, just pause a moment, Mr Kirk but you said you've no objection to the contents of this document, so thank you for that, that's very helpful. Now, let me turn then to sentence in this case. Please bear in mind, you've been convicted by a Jury and so I have to sentence you for this offence. So, if you start addressing me about the rights and wrongs of your conviction, I'm afraid I'm going to have to stop you.

H
What I want to know is this. Is what you have to say about sentence, what you wanted to say about, for example, what the imposition of an immediate custodial sentence, what the
