Dear Mr Michael,

Maurice John KIRK (A7306AT)

I welcome the nomenclature of your title as it is about Crime. I wish to report a crime or mistake or deceit made by the South Wales Police on my brother Maurice Kirk, a 74 year old man currently in HMP Parc.

He has been in the South Wales prisons several times since 2009 firstly on a trumped up charge of 'selling a machine gun'. He was in Cardiff Prison on remand when the Police, realising that their charge had no merit asked the director of Caswell Clinic to find mental issues with my brother to send him to Ashworth for life. He wrote a report in October 2009, aided by a Dr Rodger Wood suggesting he had a paranoid delusion personality and probably was suffering from a brain tumour with damage to his frontal brain due to air crashes. A doctor from Ashworth was sent to see him in Cardiff Prison who found none of these issues. In fact I attach a letter from the Clinical Director of Cardiff Hospitals, Dr R Marnell who also states that Maurice had none of these symptoms. Dr Gaynor Jones states to HMP Parc that Caswell Clinic was not for him as they had found no mental issues. In Nov 2017 a Professor Jenny Shaw, a psychiatrist, also cleared him. The jury saw through the police story and found him NOT GUILTY in February 2010.

However, whilst sourcing suitable accommodation for him in Dorset it transpired that the Probation Service there considered him a man with mental issues and were concerned about his criminal record. Both these items had been supplied by the South Wales Police to the National Probation Service and so were passed on to Dorset.

When leaving prison in December 2018 Maurice was handed an OASys record. He had never seen one before, despite leaving prison in your jurisdiction several times. That was no wonder when he read the falsified criminal convictions. He was apparently found guilty of narcotics, firearms, child abuse, and ABH. None of these were found guilty and lead to him being put in prison.

As a retired magistrate I remember often questioning a police officer the details of the convictions only to find that they had been 'coloured' by the officer. I suggest that this has happened here. The judge, not liking an Englishman defending himself, believed the Police and sent him down for pursuing the original doctor who had written this erroneous report. Maurice was accused of harassment x 4. The doctor went sick and left the mental health service in Wales and moved to New Zealand. None of his colleagues had supported his view. He was very friendly with the South Wales Police at the time.

Whenever Maurice appeared in South Wales, he had a wife (now divorced) and a daughter living in Glamorganshire, the police got the doctor (MTW) to complain that his victim had named him on the Internet. The court said they had told Maurice not to harass the doctor but the authentic document never reached him. Clearly the whole thing could have been corrected by withdrawing this Oct 09 report but it did not happen.

You may well be asking why this all happened in the first place. After many years of practising as a notable veterinary surgeon around Barry he got more than irritated to be continually stopped by police who pretended they did not know who he was. They took him to court about 130 times for motoring offences. I believe he got off 85% of the time. What a waste of everyone's time! He had a civil action against the South Wales Police in 2009 for harassment. His love was to cure sick or injured animals . He was known for his ability and steadfastness as a vet.

If you cannot change these erroneous records can you suggest where I go? Clearly the Welsh Courts are not an option. There are people in the police service who dread being exposed in public for deceitful behaviour. I feel very sorry for the Probation Service which is at the South Wales Police mercy for making people's lives hell for no true reason.

Yours sincerely

Mrs. Celia Jeune
